Details were limited Monday evening, but Adam said a Harrison

County man and his girlfriend apparently had gotten into a verbal argument just seconds before the accident.

Witnesses say as the couple's older model beige Jeep Liberty came speeding around the curve and collided with a large tractor with a front-end loader attached, which had just turned on to Fenton Dedeaux Rd. from James Ladner Rd.

Emergency crews had to use the jaws of life to free the man from the tangled up SUV. He was then airlifted to a nearby hospital and is believed to be in critical condition.

A Bay St. Louis firefighter who suffered devastating injuries earlier this year in a motorcycle crash is battling back.

The Mississippi Blue Knights Motorcycle Club on Monday paid it forward, presenting injured fireman Michael Guitreau with the money the club raised for him last month during its benefit pub crawl and car show.

Guitreau was badly injured on April 18 when a car hit him on Hwy. 603 while he was riding his motorcycle to work. Both of his legs were shattered and he suffered multiple internal injuries, requiring a series of arduous surgeries.

"These guys are going out there every day and risking their lives," Blue Knights Chapter President Robert O'Neal -- a former Bay St. Louis police officer -- said before the check presentation at the Main Street fire department on Monday. "This was a totally devastating event that could screw up his career for the rest of his life. ... When something like this happens, we step up and help."

The club presented Guitreau and his wife Sierra with a check for $11,224.

A huge crowd enjoyed the shade under the oaks at the historic Bay St. Louis Depot on Saturday to enjoy some down-home barbecue and blues for the 92nd annual St. Rose de Lima Festival.

"It was one of the best festivals we've had," event organizer Janita Cole said. "Comments were made to me that the food was delicious, (there was) soul-soothing music and an awesomely friendly Southern atmosphere under the oaks. Having the festival at the historic Train Depot was a great place for the entire community to come together."

One of the highlights of the festival was a brief ceremony to honor local music legends Bo and Dee.

"It was an extreme delight to have Bo and Dee in our presence at the festival," Cole said. "They were honored as local legends for providing many years of music and entertainment to Hancock County and the surrounding area."

Playground installed at Bay's Larroux Park

BY CASSANDRA FAVRE
STAFF WRITER

Officials from Bay St. Louis and Hancock County on Tuesday celebrated the completion of the new playground equipment at Larroux Park on Dunbar Avenue.

Hancock County Grants Administrator Maureen Anderson said the park is one of four the Hancock County Board of Supervisors budgeted for in capital projects.

The other completed playgrounds are installed at Necaise and Dedeaux ball fields.

"Next week, the playground in Bayside Park is expected to be completed," she said. "They've never had a playground out there."

The total cost of the playgrounds is about $125,490 and Gulf Coast Solutions, LLC completed the installation, Anderson

The playground should be ready for use at the end of this week. said.

The playground at Larroux Park came in at about $30,000, she said.

The park features swing sets and four slides and is scheduled to open the end of this week, Bay St. Louis Mayor Mike Favre said. All that's lacking is to spread the mulch, he added.

"It's going to be a great asset for this park," Favre said. "It's been missing this (playground) and hopefully we can add a few more things."

Favre said one option the city may explore is fencing off a portion of the park to make a dog park.

Hancock County Board of Supervisors President Blaine LaFontaine said last year, the county funded the installation of four new playgrounds in Catahoula, Pearlinton, Leetown and Fenton.

LaFontaine said the board evaluated the cities' and county's equipment.

"Most of the equipment was aged and had reached the end of its life cycle," he said. "We see it as making an investment in recreation and enhancing parks and recreation for our families."

Annual “Blue Economy” Event features local Navy Exercises

The 8th Annual Oceans In Action Workshop serves as the voice for the Advanced Naval Technology Exercise (ANTX) Gulf Coast

SEA COAST ECHO

STENNIS SPACE CENTER -- The Gulf Coast Section of the Marine Technology Society (MTS) and the Mississippi Enterprise for Technology (MSET) will co-host the Oceans In Action Workshop on August 21-22, 2018 at the Courtyard Marriott in Gulfport. The event will feature updates from federal agencies at Stennis Space Center that have a marine-related mission and new technologies that have enhanced that mission over the past year. This year, the event will also serve as the mechanism by which the results of the Navy's Advanced Naval Technology Exercise (ANTX) Gulf Coast are presented.

“This is a great way to learn about the federal agencies at Stennis involved in marine-related missions, such as the Navy and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA)” said Laurie Jugan, Event Chair. “This year, we collaborated more closely with the Navy to highlight the systems they are deploying in the Gulf of Mexico. These tests will help determine if the systems could enhance Navy missions.”

A draft agenda for the event, which includes pier-side demonstrations at the Port of Gulfport, is available at www.mtsociety.org under Society News.

ANTX Gulf Coast is an extension of an annual event conducted by the Naval Undersea Warfare Center (NUWC) in Newport, R.I. Following the Navy's Gulf of Mexico Operational Demonstration in 2017, NUWC decided to hold exercises in both locations to enable the maximum flexibility for participating companies. Last years' demonstrations featured unmanned airborne and in-water systems under a variety of scenarios representing Navy operational missions. Eleven technologies from 10 companies will be tested under operational scenarios this summer.

Exercise results will be represented by posters, videos, and equipment displays at the newly opened University of Southern Mississippi (USM) Marine Research Center, located at the Port of Gulfport. Oceans In Action attendees will be shuttled to the port for pier-side Navy demonstrations as well. Upon returning to the workshop venue at lunch, attendees will hear more about the Navy's plans for unmanned systems in the Gulf region from Commander, Naval Meteorology and Oceanography Command Rear Adm. John Okon.

“This event brings awareness of the importance of the Blue Economy to Mississippi's coastal and overall state economy,” added Jugan. “I think we all understand the traditional Ocean Economy – fishing, transportation, oil & gas, and shipbuilding – we are just beginning to scratch the surface on what the economic impact of the Blue Economy is in the State. The Blue Economy is defined by the World Bank as the sustainable use of ocean resources for economic growth, improved livelihoods and jobs, and ocean ecosystem health.”

The local MTS Section created the workshop in 2010 to highlight the solutions that research efforts bring to real-world problems, providing a forum for others to learn about the marine-related missions of the federal agencies at Stennis. For additional information on MTS or Oceans In Action, visit www.mtsociety.org.

MSET joined as co-host in 2012 to add an industry component to the event. Each year talks on emerging technologies are solicited and three selected for presentation. Additionally, MSET coordinates exhibit tables and sponsorships so private companies can display their newest technologies. This year MSET will coordinate business-to-business and business-to-government meetings to help companies determine who might need their technology product or service. For additional information on exhibiting or available sponsorships, contact Jugan at laurie.jugan@usm.edu.

This is a part in a series of articles on Oceans In Action and ANTX. Next: National-level interest and participation.

Work hard, learn a lot!

We all have a lot of decisions to make about our lives, but some decisions, it seems, our parents make for us long before we're old enough to make them for ourselves.

My mother decided early on that all four of her sons would graduate from high school. My brothers and I didn't have any say in the matter.

She was lucky enough to be a grammar school graduate, having completed the eighth grade and quickly entering the workforce at the age of 13.

My father didn't even get that much formal schooling. He attended a few years of grammar school, then joined his own father in the timber industry.

Today's youth enter school much earlier than did folks of my generation, because it has been discovered that youngsters can begin learning at a much younger age.

Certainly, it is vital to get a good education in the 21st Century United States if you ever want to achieve any measure of success; but today's society is more conducive to helping one complete his or her education.

We Depression-era kids (and all the generations before us) were basically considered small, inconsequential adults who were expected to work at a much earlier age just to help our families meet their basic needs. During the World War II years, it seemed like only the wealthy could afford such "luxury" items as coffee, sugar and new clothing.

The rest of us had to make do with what was available in order to survive.

My generation had to grow up fast, and take on adult tasks and responsibilities earlier than we probably should have, but that was the only way to survive. There was no welfare or food stamps in those days.

That's why we grew our own vegetables and went hunting and fishing for meat.

My brothers and I also had to basically be lumberjacks at an early age, cutting enough wood to keep our old woodstove – our only source for heat and cooking – going throughout the day.

I remember when I was eight years old, my brothers – one of them 18 months younger, the other 30 months younger – and I had to fell 50-foot-high pine trees and cut them down to 12-inch sections.

Since our father worked as a guard on the Rigolets train bridge and was only home a few hours a week, we had to take care of those sorts of tasks ourselves. Our mother worked at the garment. The midwife who delivered my two youngest brothers – "Aunt Susie," we called her – watched out for us most days.

Aunt Susie kept us busy with chores, as well. She had a milk cow that I milked at least twice a day.

In spite of all the work, my brothers and I still found time for school, and fun, and we all grew into responsible adulthood.

Of course, we weren't the only family in Hancock County that had to work hard just to get by. There are probably quite a few folks my age who had the same types of experiences.

The Dog Days of Summer

While growing up in the Mississippi Delta, I was accustomed to hearing the saying that we were in "the dog days of summer." I just knew we were in the hot days of summer. I heard it again and began to wonder what the phrase actually meant. After doing some research, this is what I found.

In ancient times, when the night sky was not obscured by artificial lights and smog, different groups of peoples in different parts of the world drew images in the sky by "connecting the dots" of stars. They saw images of bears (Ursa Major and Ursa Minor), twins (Gemini), a bull (Taurus), and others, including dogs (Canis Major and Canis Minor).

The brightest of the stars in Canis Major (the big dog) is Sirius, which also happens to be the brightest star in the night sky. In fact, it is so bright that the ancient Romans thought that the earth received heat from it.

Conservation Corner

Wildlife Mississippi

In the summer, however, Sirius, the "dog star," rises and sets with the sun. During late July Sirius is in conjunction with the sun, and the ancients believed that its heat added to the heat of the sun, creating a stretch of hot and sultry weather. They named this period of time, from 20 days before the conjunction to 20 days after, "dog days" after the "dog star."

The conjunction of Sirius with the sun varies somewhat with latitude. And the "precession of the equinoxes" (a gradual drifting of the constellations over time) means that the constellations today are not in exactly the same place in the sky as they were in ancient Rome. Although it is certainly the warmest period of the summer, the heat is not due to the added radiation from a far-away star, regardless of its brightness. It is a direct result of the earth's tilt. According to The Old Farmer's Almanac, dog days occur during the period between July 3 and August 11. The Merriam-Webster dictionary defines them as "the period between early July and early September when the hot sultry weather of summer usually occurs in the Northern hemisphere."

If you ask some of your friends, you will usually find that many people believe the phrase is in reference to the conspicuous laziness of domesticated dogs (who are in danger of overheating with too much exercise) during the hottest days of the summer. When speaking of "dog days" there seems to be a connotation of lying or "dogging" around, or being "dog tired" on these hot and humid days.

Although these meanings have nothing to do with the original source of the phrase, they may have been attached to the phrase in recent years due to common usage or misunderstanding of the origin of the phrase.

We need to be mindful when driving our vehicles

It seems as if we read on a weekly basis of traffic accidents involving fatalities and serious injuries.

This past Sunday, The Sun Herald reported that between 1999 & 2016, 14,786 people died in Mississippi; four straight years we have led the nation in traffic fatalities. As the weather warms, we repeatedly read of infants who are forgotten and left to die inside locked vehicles.

We have got to get ourselves in a mindset of accountability, remembering that our destination and the demands of our employment are truly insignificant when considering the great responsibility that befalls us in traversing the many roadways we must take in arriving safely at our destinations. gadgetry to interfere with it, that we remain keenly aware of our surroundings, of traffic all around us, and that we keep uppermost in mind that we have a responsibility to those with whom we share the roads and those who are passengers in our vehicles, that all of us, my God, may arrive safely at our destinations. Let us not forget our little ones harnessed in their small chairs, locked and helpless in the back seats of our vehicles, for well we know that during the hot days of summer, these precious babies easily succumb to the terrible heat that quickly builds inside a closed automobile. Guide us, oh God, in remaining vigilant of our babies when they are with us in our cars. Amen

"We want to thank the St. Rose Festival team

Guitreau was able to attend the check presentation Monday in a wheelchair.
Both he and Sierra said it has been a dark time in their lives, but they really appreciate all the support from the community.

"It's been tough," Michael said. "I basically had to start back from square one, back home with my folks, and we've got four little ones. ... I'm progressing slowly. I have a doctor's appointment coming up, and hopefully then I can get released to try to do some walking. After that, it's a lot of therapy."

"We're taking it day by day," Sierra said.
"The continued support and prayers are really appreciated," Michael said. "The whole community has been great."

RECORD CATCH FOR MARGOT SCHINDLER

I had a last minute cancelation recently. Luckily, my wife Stephanie and daughter Margot were able to join me for a quick trip. We were drifting live croakers on an oyster reef near Bayou Caddy. Truth be told, we were trying to catch a large gaff-top catfish so Margot could claim a new state record. As luck would have it, our first 3 fish were big speckled trout. We did catch some big catfish, but not big enough. As the wind and seas began to build, we were a few minutes from calling the trip when something huge hit Margots line.

Stephanie and I knew it was something large, so we let Margot fight the fish. We were fishing with 20lb braided line on an Okuma Helios 30(spining reel). This fish was going to spool us, if we didn't go after it. I ran down the fish on the trolling motor, while my wife held on to Margot. Honestly, I was going to help her reel in the fish, but my wife would have none of that. She is a stickler for the rules, and somehow she knew this was going to be a trophy fish. After about 15 minutes, I slipped the net under a large bull red fish. That fish hit the deck, and it was a whole lotta of

by Capt. Sonny Schindler

hugs, high fives and smooches.

Now, for this fish to be considered a Mississippi Youth State Record, it needed to be over 26 pounds. The Mississippi Deep Sea Rodeo was being held in Gulfport, and we knew there would be a certified scale and biologist on hand. Our cousin "Lil" Bruce Sellier weighed the fish at Pinches Crab Shack for us when we got back to Bayou Caddy. The fish was barely over 26 Pounds, so we were racing to get the fish to Gulfport.

After a very stressful 20 minute ride to Gulfport Harbor, the big bull red weighed in at 26.8 POUNDS!!! The fish not only earned Margot her second state record, she took home 1st Place for youth red fish at the rodeo!!! It was one of the most memorable catches I have ever been a part of.

I can not stress this enough, get the kiddos out on the water. No matter if you are catching records or trash fish, you are making memories with our future fishermen and fisherwomen. Make time for them, pick a good weather day, and go have some fun.

As always, have fun and be safe.

Nestled in the heart of Old Town Bay St. Louis is a new liquor store. Don't be fooled by the small footprint - this well-stocked store has over 200 labels of wine and 250 brands of liquor.

Located in the same building as Bodega Adventure Rentals and Sales and the Parrot Head Bar and Grill, Bodega Spirits & Liquor has brands you want and prices you'll like at a convenient location.

"We picked out our own favorites," said owner Kevin Jordan. "If you are a regular and you want something we'll get it."

Jordan knows his spir-its and wine. His family owns a vineyard in California that sells grapes to some of the most popular labels in the United States.

"We have a lot of great connections in the wine business and are looking forward to bringing in edu-cators to host wine classes and tastings,"said Jordan.

Look for an upcoming schedule of classes and tast-ings.

Larry Main is often behind the counter at Bodega Spirits and Liquor to impart his knowledge of wines, liquors and - if need-ed - local fishing spots.

Truly a one-stop-shop, everything a vacationer or local could need for an afternoon of fun and food is under one roof. Bodega Liquor Spirits is also pet-friendly and Main has a stock of doggy treats and also features local pet celebrities on Bodega's social media channels.

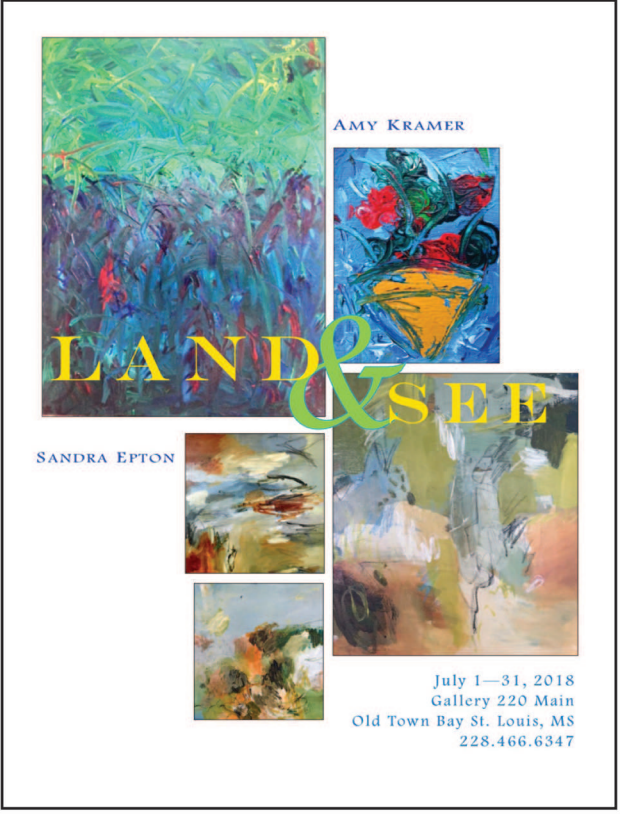

There are discounts for purchases by the case, and Bodega Liquor and Spirits also has a wholesale license, so they can deliver wine and spirits to local businesses.

On Second Saturday, July 14, Bodega Spirits & Liquor will host a wine tasting just steps from the Frida Fest look-alike competition in their Parrot Head Bar at 111 Court Street between 4 and 8 p.m.

MANIERI REAL ESTATE
501 Main Street
Bay St. Louis

Manieri is one of the most familiar family names in Bay St. Louis, and in real estate, people want a name they can trust.

The family has been in business in Bay St. Louis, in one form or another, since the 1870s. Manieri's Restaurant was once known as one of the oldest businesses in town.

"Our roots are in the restaurant business, but at our core we are hospitality through and through," said Joey Manieri.

As a native of this area, Manieri truly enjoys meet-ing newcomers and sharing his love of this special place with them, which is why real estate is a perfect fit for the family.

Their team has been meeting real estate needs for over 25 years. From sales to vacation rentals and property management, Manieri Real Estate, LLC is a one-stop-shop in Bay St. Louis.

"Our Main Street loca-tion is like open house every day," Manieri said. "We never know who's going to pop in just to say hello. People enjoy the atmosphere we've created here as we strive to keep it light and easy."

Many vacationers end up calling Bay St. Louis home, and the Manieris say the real estate market, espe-cially in Old Town, has been heating up in the past couple of years. But Manieri remembers a time before Katrina when there was barely an empty lot to build on.

"We are certainly com-ing back faster than after Camille. I was 16 years old and lived a block off the beach, as I do now," said Manieri. "Believe it or not, there are still people out there who are waiting for the right time to come back."

In the meantime, Manieri has seen lots of new people discovering the Bay.

"We have a unique thing in Bay St. Louis that peo-ple don't come across in other vacation spots," he said. "We've got an easier lifestyle. It's more laid back, and we don't have the traffic the bigger beach cities have. People are beginning to find out more and more about that."

Manieri takes pride that his agency - comprised of him, his wife and two other agents - works on a differ-ent philosophy than bigger franchises.

"We are consultants, troubleshooters and prob-lem solvers," said Manieri. "Most people don't realize what a good agent will do because much of it is behind the scenes."

The agency runs dozens of vacation rentals and fea-tures about 30 long-term rentals, so whether some-one is looking for a quick getaway to the Bay or a sec-ond home, Manieri Real Estate is a team - and a name - you can trust.

A Look at 'Land and See' at Gallery 220

Gallery 220 Main is pleased to feature the works of two local painters, Amy Kramer and Sandra Epton, for the month of July. In their show titled "Land and See", the pair will share the spotlight in the feature window of the gallery and during the July 14 BSL Second Saturday Art Walk. Epton, known for her dis-tinctive landscapes and Kramer known for her tex-ture rich aquatics, create a marriage of movement across the terrain in their acrylic on canvas paint-ings. Rich with color, the artists take the viewer from calmness to excitement with a stylistic stroke of the brush.

Amy Kramer's aquatic and botanical life began in her youth and continues today in her colorful and energetic abstract canvases. Inspired by her surround-ings, she loves her life in the Bay. She has studied formally and informally in a multitude of art forms including acrylic, wood and clay, but she is mostly self-taught. Kramer holds an Engineering Degree from LSU and resides in Bay St. Louis. She has been a longstanding member of the Gallery 220 co-opera-tive.

A native of New Orleans, Sandra Epton studied her craft primarily at the New Orleans Academy of Fine Arts, but also under the supervision of professional artist around the USA and in Europe. She has worked professionally for the past twelve years with many works in watercolor, graphite, acrylics and mixed media. While she is well-known for her work with the human figure, her award-winning creations also include abstract com-positions, portraits, natural subjects, and still-life. The work featured includes paintings from her series, "At the Bay", which was recently awarded the Nell Tilton Facility Award at the New Orleans Academy of Fine Art. Epton now resides in Bay St. Louis.

Meet the artists during the Old Town Second Saturday Art Walk on July 14, 2018 from 5-8pm at Gallery 220 Main. Just two and a half blocks north the beach, Gallery 220 is known for it's lively enter-tainment and creative atmosphere. Over 25 local artists are members of the co-operative art gallery and encourage all to visit and see why Gallery 220 is the cool summer hangout.

OLA students attend 2018 annual Apex Leadership Summit

SEA COAST ECHO

Our Lady Academy (OLA) students, Madison Bradley, Kennady Hertz and Taylor Slade were selected to participate in Apex Leadership Summit at The University of Mississippi this summer. The Apex Leadership Summit is a leadership training program that rallies high school senior leaders from across Mississippi. Selection to the program is very competitive, with more than 350 applicants for the 160 invitations to participate. Students attending the Summit are rising high school seniors representing schools across the state. During the Apex program, students attend leadership seminars and team-building exercises and perform community service projects. Madison Bradley expounded, "Throughout the 3 days I learned how to be a leader, what it takes to be a leader, and how to be a team player. It was a series of self-exploration team work and fun. We were split into 8 groups and we were engaged in challenges, particular group projects and performed services to benefit the community. My group won the O-Maze contest. The O-Maze is a campus wide scavenger hunt. The hunt consisted of 9 riddles and we finished in record time. It was a blast and it afforded us the opportunity to work as a team. I truly enjoyed my time at Ole Miss and will seriously consider attending Ole Miss, after I graduate next year." Attending APEX was a great opportunity for me to develop my leadership skills and make life-long friendships along the way," expressed Taylor Slade. Kennady Hertz added, "This experience was a memorable opportunity to meet people from all over Mississippi and I would encourage any upcoming Senior next year to participate in this rewarding seminar."

Day of registration will begin at 11am at the Bay St. Louis Harbor. All participants should be back at the BSL Harbor by 5pm. Additionally, CASA will hold a small silent auction with summer/outdoor themed items and drinks will be available for purchase. "The Poker Run is a fun event that gets friends and families together to support the work of CASA in the community", states Mike Favre, Poker Run Chairman. CASA is encouraging the boating community, as well as local jeep clubs, car clubs, and motorcycle groups to participate this year. Participants purchase a poker hand for $20 and the best three poker hands get to select from amazing prizes. This year's Poker Run stops include The Blind Tiger, Buoys Bar, Dan B's, Tripletails, Cuz's Old Town Oyster Bar, Bodega, the Ugly Pirate, Daiquiri Shak, Bay Marina, Broke Spoke, the Cannon's Camp on Jordan River, the Red Zone, Diamondhead Ship Store, Jordan River Steamer and the Bay St. Louis Harbor. CASA of Hancock County is a 501(c)3 non-profit organization that utilizes trained community members to advocate for children who through no fault of their own are involved in the complex and overburdened child welfare and youth court systems. CASA relies on the communities support to continue this work. Presently, 75 volunteers are advocating for 152 children however, an additional 90 children are unserved by CASA due to a lack of volunteers. CASA hopes to change this by recruiting and training at least 30 new volunteers in 2018. Although the program is comprised of volunteers, there are costs associated with screening, training and supporting volunteer child advocates. Monies raised from the poker run will ensure that the CASA program not only continues to exist but also expands to increase the number of children served.

Certain blooming plants attract many butterflies

BY DR. GARY R. BACHMAN
MSU EXTENSION SERVICE

Like most gardeners, I love watching the various butterflies that visit my garden.

One I really like is the giant swallowtail, with its black body and vivid, yellow stripes. This creature loves my citrus, where she lays her eggs. The developing caterpillars have a unique defense mechanism; they look like bird poop on the citrus leaves.

Now, I know that not everyone grows citrus trees, so here are some of my favorite butterfly-attracting plants that everyone can grow.

Besides providing great color for us to enjoy, pentas are garden magnets for butterflies and hummingbirds because they are rich sources of nectar. These plants are great at tolerating the heat and humidity of our Mississippi summers.

Penta gets its name from the Latin word for “five,” since each small flower has five petals. In fact, the star-like reference is fitting as one common name for pentas is Egyptian Star Cluster.

The blooms are produced in clusters of these five-petal flowers from spring until frost in the fall. It’s common for each penta plant to have up to 20 clusters of flowers at any given time, and the butterflies certainly enjoy the feast.

A native plant you should consider for your landscape is butterfly weed, known scientifically as Asclepias tuberosa. It was chosen as Mississippi Medallion winners in 2012. Butterfly weed, also commonly called milkweed, is low maintenance, attracts a lot of butterflies and is deer resistant.

In middle to late summer, butterfly weed lives up to its name as a butterfly magnet. It is the primary food source for Monarch caterpillars.

If you want a butterfly weed that blooms all summer long, then consider the tropical milkweed, Asclepias curassavica. Many garden centers carry this plant. I like it because it provides abundant forage for the caterpillars before the native milkweed kicks in.

Butterfly bush, or Buddleia, has flowers composed of sweetly fragrant panicles of tiny blooms in various shades of white, blue, purple, pink, red and even yellow. The flowers are displayed on arching graceful stems. Butterflies, bees and hummingbirds love these flowers.

Plant butterfly bush in full sun for best flowering, as shade reduces flowering and the plant becomes thin and leggy. Butterfly bush tolerates just about any soil type as long as it’s well drained.

Treat butterfly bush like a flowering perennial. When new shoots start to appear in the spring, prune last year’s growth back to about 6 inches from the ground. This trim encourages new growth, and the flowers are produced on new wood. Deadhead to help side shoots develop larger flower heads.

These plants I’ve discussed are currently performing great in my garden.

There are lots of flowering plants that will attract butterflies and other pollinators to your garden, so get out to your favorite garden center and bring home a selection that will attract butterflies to your home garden.
